New to GardenScape is the Design Challenge, a live event putting some of our top landscape designers to the task, solving problems while you watch. For each of the Design Challenge segments, four professional landscape designers will be seated at drawing boards. An announcer will describe to them, and to the audience, specific design opportunities or challenges.

Each of the designers will sketch out a plan or design to meet the challenge, and video screens will allow the audience to watch as they work. Each will then show his or her plan to the audience and describe the thinking that went into it
